MASSACHUSETTS REGISTER,

&c.

The following is the

CONSTITUTION

Which was agreed upon by the Convention of the Delegates of the United States of America, (Rhode-Island excepted) the 17th of September, 1787, and since adopted to be the Form of General Government in future, viz.

Frame of Government.

WE, the People of the UNITED STATES, in order to form a more perfect Union, establish Justice, insure domestic Tranquility, provide for the common Defence, promote the general Welfare, and secure the blessings of Liberty to ourselves and our Posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States of AMERICA.

Legislative Power.

ARTICLE I.

The House of Representatives.

SECT. 1. ALL legislative powers herein granted shall be vested in a Congress of the United States, which shall consist of a Senate and House of Representatives.

SECT. 2. The House of Representatives shall be composed of members chosen every second year by the people of the several States, and the electors in each State shall have the qualifications requisite for electors of the most numerous branch of the State Legislature.

No person shall be a Representative who shall not have attained to the age of twenty-five years, and been seven years a citizen of the United States, and who shall not, when elected, be an inhabitant of that State in which he shall be chosen.

Representatives and direct taxes shall be apportioned among the several States which may be included within this Union, according to their respective numbers, which shall be determined by adding to the whole number of free persons, including those bound to service for a term of years, and excluding Indians not taxed, three-fifths of all other persons. The actual enumeration shall be made within three years after the first meeting of the Congress of the United States, and within every subsequent term of ten years, in such manner as they shall by law direct. The number of Representatives shall not exceed one for every thirty-thousand, but each State shall have at least one Representative; and until such enumeration shall be made, the State of New-Hampshire shall be entitled to choose three; Massachusetts eight; Rhode-Island and Providence Plantations one; Connecticut five; New York six; New-Jersey four; Pennsylvania eight; Delaware one; Maryland six; Virginia ten; North-Carolina five; South-Carolina five; and Georgia three.

When vacancies happen in the Representation from any State, the executive authority thereof shall issue writs of election to fill such vacancies.

The House of Representatives shall chuse their Speaker and other officers; and shall have the sole power of impeachment.

S E N A T E.

Sec. 3. The Senate of the United States shall be composed of two Senators from each State, chosen by the Legislature thereof, for six years; and each Senator shall have one Vote.

Immediately after they shall be assembled in consequence of the first election, they shall be divided as equally as may be into three classes. The seats of the Senators of the first class shall be vacated at the expiration of the second year, of the second class at the expiration of the fourth year, and of the third class at the expiration of the sixth year, so that one third may be chosen every second year; and if vacancies happen by resignation, or otherwise, during the recess of the Legislature of any State, the Executive thereof may make temporary appointments until the next meeting of the Legislature, which shall then fill such vacancies.

No person shall be a Senator who shall not have attained to the age of thirty years, and been nine years a citizen of the United States, and who shall not, when elected, be an inhabitant of that State for which he shall be chosen.

The Vice-President of the United States shall be President of the Senate, but shall have no vote, unless they be equally divided.

The Senate shall chuse their other officers, and also a President pro tempore, in the absence of the Vice-President, or when he shall exercise the office of President of the United States.

The Senate shall have the sole power to try all impeachments. When sitting for that purpose they shall be on oath or affirmation. When the President of the United States is tried, the Chief Justice shall preside: And no person shall be convicted without the concurrence of two thirds of the members present.

Judgment in cases of impeachment shall not extend further than to removal from office, and disqualification to hold and enjoy any office of honour, trust or profit under the United States; but the party convicted shall nevertheless be liable and subject to indictment, trial, judgment and punishment, according to law.

SECT. 4. The times, places and manner of holding elections for Senators and Representatives, shall be prescribed in each State by the Legislature thereof; but the Congress may at any time by law make or alter such regulations, except as to the places of choosing Senators.

The GENERAL CONGRESS.

The Congress shall assemble at least once in every year, and such meeting shall be on the first Monday in December, unless they shall by law appoint a different day.

SECT. 5. Each House shall be the judge of the elections, returns and qualifications of its own members, and a majority of each shall constitute a quorum to do business; but a smaller number may adjourn from day to day, and may be authorized to compel the attendance of absent members, in such manner, and under such penalties as each House may provide.

Each House may determine the rules of its proceedings, punish its members for disorderly behaviour, and, with the concurrence of two thirds, expel a member.

Each House shall keep a journal of its proceedings, and from time to time publish the same, excepting such parts as may in their judgment require secrecy; and the yeas and nays of the members of either House on any question shall, at the desire of one fifth of those present, be entered in the journal.

Neither House, during the session of Congress, shall, without the consent of the other, adjourn for more than three days, nor to any other place than that in which the two Houses shall be sitting.

Sec. 6. The Senators and Representatives shall receive a compensation for their services, to be ascertained by law, and paid out of the treasury of the United States. They shall in all cases, except treason, felony and breach of the peace, be privileged from arrest during their attendance at the session of their respective Houses, and in going to and returning from the same: and for any speech or debate in either House they shall not be questioned in any other place.

No Senator or Representative shall, during the time for which he was elected, be appointed to any civil office under the authority of the United States, which shall have been created, or the emoluments whereof shall have been increased during such time: and no person holding any office under the United States shall be a member of either House during his continuance in office.

The Powers of CONGRESS.

Sec. 7. All bills for raising revenue shall originate in the House of Representatives, but the Senate may propose or concur with amendments as on other bills.

Every bill which shall have passed the House of Representatives and the Senate, shall, before it become a law, be presented to the President of the United States; if he approves he shall sign it, but if not he shall return it, with his objections to that House in which it shall have originated, who shall enter the objections at large on their journal, and proceed to reconsider it. If after such reconsideration, two thirds of that House shall agree to pass the bill, it shall be sent, together with the objections, to the other House, by which it shall likewise be reconsidered, and if approved by two thirds of that House, it shall become a law. But in all such cases the votes of both Houses shall be determined by yeas and nays, and the names of the persons voting for and against the bill shall be entered on the journal of each House respectively. If any bill shall not be returned by the President within ten days (Sundays excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law, in like manner as if he had signed it, unless the Congress by their adjournment prevent its return, in which case it shall not be a law.

Every order, resolution, or vote to which the concurrence of the Senate and House of Representatives may be necessary (except on a question of adjournment) shall be presented to the President of the United States; and before the same shall take effect, shall be approved by him, or being disapproved by him, shall be repassed by two thirds of the Senate and House of Representatives, according to the rules and limitations prescribed in the case of a bill.

Sec^t. 8. The Congress shall have power—To lay and collect taxes, duties, imposts and excises, to pay the debts, and provide for the common defence and general welfare of the United States: but all duties, imposts and excises shall be uniform throughout the United States;—To borrow money on the credit of the United States;—To regulate commerce with foreign nations, and among the several States, and with the Indian tribes;—To establish an uniform rule of naturalization, and uniform laws on the subject of bankruptcies throughout the United States;—To coin money, regulate the value thereof, and of foreign coin, and fix the standard of weights and measures;—To provide for the punishment of counterfeiting the securities and current coin of the United States;—To establish post offices and post roads;—To promote the progress of science and useful arts, by securing for limited times to authors and inventors the exclusive right to their respective writings and discoveries;—To constitute tribunals inferior to the supreme court;—To define and punish piracies and felonies committed on the high seas, and offences against the law of nations;—To declare war, grant letters of marque and reprisal, and make rules concerning captures on land and water;—To raise and support armies, but no appropriation of money to that use shall be for a longer term than two years ;—To provide and maintain a Navy ;

 —To make rules for the government and regulation of the land and naval forces ;—To provide for calling forth the militia to execute the laws of the Union, suppress insurrections and repel invasions ;—To provide for organizing, arming, and disciplining the militia, and for governing such part of them as may be employed in the service of the United States, reserving to the States respectively, the appointment of the officers, and the authority of training the militia, according to the discipline prescribed by Congress ;—To exercise exclusive legislation in all cases whatsoever, over such district (not exceeding ten miles square) as may, by cession of particular States, and the acceptance of Congress, become the seat of government of the United States, and to exercise like authority over all places purchased by the consent of the legislature of the State in which the same shall be, for the erection of forts, magazines, arsenals, dock-yards, and other needful buildings ; and to make all laws which shall be necessary and proper for carrying into execution the foregoing powers, and all other powers vested by this Constitution in the government of the United States, or in any department or officer thereof.

Restrictions upon CONGRESS.

Sec. 9. The migration or importation of such persons as any of the States now existing shall think proper to admit, shall not be prohibited by the Congress prior to the year one thousand eight hundred and eight, but a tax or duty may be imposed on such importation, not exceeding ten dollars for each person.

The privilege of the writ of habeas corpus shall not be suspended, unless when in cases of rebellion or invasion, the public safety may require it.

No bill of attainder or ex post facto law shall be passed.

No capitation, or other direct tax shall be laid, unless in proportion to the census or enumeration herein before directed to be taken.

No tax or duty shall be laid on articles exported from any State.

No preference shall be given by any regulation of commerce or revenue to the ports of one State over those of another ; nor shall vessels bound to or from one State, be obliged to enter, clear, or pay duties in another.

No money shall be drawn from the treasury, but in consequence of appropriations made by law; and a regular statement and account of the receipts and expenditures of all public money shall be published from time to time.

No title of nobility shall be granted by the United States:—And no person holding any office of profit or trust under them, shall, without the consent of the Congress, accept of any present, emolument, office, or title, of any kind whatever, from any King, Prince, or foreign State.

Restrictions upon respective STATES.

SECT. 10. No State shall enter into any treaty, alliance, or confederation; grant letters of marque and reprisal; coin money; emit bills of credit; make any thing but gold and silver coin a tender in payment of debts; pass any bill of attainder, ex post facto law, or law impairing the obligation of contracts, or grant any title of nobility.

No State shall, without the consent of Congress, lay any imposts or duties on imports or exports, except what may be absolutely necessary for executing its inspection laws; and the net produce of all duties and imposts, laid by any State, on imports or exports, shall be for the use of the treasury of the United States; and all such laws shall be subject to the revision and controul of the Congress.

No State shall, without the consent of Congress, lay any duty of tonnage, keep troops, or ships of war in time of peace, enter into any agreement or compact with another State, or with a foreign power, or engage in war, unless actually invaded, or in such imminent danger as will not admit of delay.

ARTICLE II.

Executive Power.

SECT. 1. The executive power shall be vested in a President of the United States of America. He shall hold his office during the term of four years, and together with the Vice-President, chosen for the same term, be elected as follows:

Each State shall appoint, in such a manner as the Legislature thereof may direct, a number of electors, equal to the whole number of Senators and Representatives to which the State may be entitled in the Congress; but no Senator or Representative, or person holding an office of trust or profit under the United States, shall be appointed an Elector.

The Electors shall meet in their respective States, and vote by ballot for two persons, of whom one at least shall not be an inhabitant of the same State with themselves. And they shall make a list of all the persons voted for, and of the number of votes for each; which list they shall sign and certify, and transmit sealed to the seat of government of the United States, directed to the President of the Senate. The President of the Senate shall, in the presence of the Senate and House of Representatives, open all the certificates, and the votes shall then be counted. The person having the greatest number of votes shall be the President, if such number be a majority of the whole number of Electors appointed; and if there be more than one who have such majority, and have an equal number of votes, then the House of Representatives shall immediately choose by ballot one of them for President; and if no person have a majority, then from the five highest on the list the said House shall in like manner choose the President: But in choosing the President the votes shall be taken by States, the representation from each State having one vote; a quorum for this purpose shall consist of a member or members from two thirds of the States, and a majority of all the States shall be necessary to a choice. In every case, after the choice of the President, the person having the greatest number of votes of the Electors, shall be the Vice-President: But if there shall remain two or more who have equal votes, the Senate shall choose from them by ballot the Vice-President.

The Congress may determine the time of choosing the Electors, and the day on which they shall give their votes; which day shall be the same throughout the United States.

No person, except a natural born citizen, or a citizen of the United States at the time of the adoption of this Constitution, shall be eligible to the office of President; neither shall any person be eligible to that office, who shall not have attained to the age of thirty-five years, and been fourteen years a resident within the United States.

In case of the removal of the President from office, or of his death, resignation, or inability to discharge the powers and duties of the said office, the same shall devolve on the Vice-President, and the Congress may by law provide for the case of removal, death, resignation, or inability, both of the President and Vice-President, declaring what officer shall then act as President, and such officer shall act accordingly, until the disability be removed, or a President shall be elected.

The President shall, at stated times, receive for his services a compensation, which shall neither be increased nor diminished during the period for which he shall have been elected; and he shall not receive within that period any other emolument from the United States, or any of them.

Before he enter on the execution of his office, he shall take the following oath or affirmation.

"I do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will faithfully execute the office of President of the United States, and will to the best of my ability preserve, protect, and defend the Constitution of the United States."

Sec. 2. The President shall be Commander in Chief of the Army and Navy of the United States, and of the Militia of the several States, when called into the actual service of the United States; he may require the opinion, in writing, of the principal officer in each of the executive departments, upon any subject relating to the duties of their respective offices, and he shall have power to grant reprieves and pardons for offences against the United States, except in cases of impeachment.

He shall have power, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, to make treaties, provided two-thirds of the Senators present concur; and he shall nominate, and by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, shall appoint Ambassadors, other public Ministers, and Consuls, Judges of the Supreme Court, and all other officers of the United States, whose appointments are not herein otherwise provided for, and which shall be established by law, but the Congress may by law vest the appointment of some inferior officers, as they think proper, in the President alone, in the courts of law, or in the heads of departments.

The President shall have power to fill up all vacancies that may happen during the recess of the Senate, by granting commissions which shall expire at the end of their next session.

Sec. 3. He shall from time to time give to the Congress information of the state of the Union, and recommend to their consideration such measures as he shall judge necessary and expedient; he may, on extraordinary occasions, convene both Houses, or either of them, and in case of disagreement between them, with respect to the time of adjournment, he may adjourn them to such time as he shall think proper; he shall receive Ambassadors and other public Ministers; he shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed, and shall commission all the officers of the United States.

Sec. 4. The President, Vice-President, and all civil officers of the United States, shall be removed from office on impeachment for, and conviction of, treason, bribery, or other high crimes and misdemeanors.

A R T I C L E III.

Judiciary Power.

Sec. 1. The judicial power of the United States shall be vested in one Supreme Court, and in such inferior courts as the Congress may from time to time ordain and establish. The Judges both of the supreme and inferior courts shall hold their offices during good behaviour, and shall, at stated times, receive for their services, a compensation, which shall not be diminished during their continuance in office.

Sec. 2. The judicial power shall extend to all cases in law and equity, arising under this Constitution, the laws of the United States, and treaties made, or which shall be made, under their authority; to all cases affecting Ambassadors, other public Ministers, and Consuls; to all cases of admiralty and maritime jurisdiction; to controversies to which the United States shall be a party; to controversies between two or more States, between a State and citizens of another State, between citizens of different States, between citizens of the same State claiming lands under grants of different States, and between a State, or the citizens thereof, and foreign States, citizens or subjects.

In all cases affecting Ambassadors, other public Ministers and Consuls, and those in which a State shall be party, the Supreme Court shall have original jurisdiction. In all the other cases before-mentioned, the Supreme Court shall have appellate jurisdiction, both as to law and fact, with such exceptions, and under such regulations as the Congress shall make.

The trial of all crimes, except in cases of impeachment, shall be by jury; and such trial shall be held in the State where the said crimes shall have been committed; but when not committed within any State, the trial shall be at such place or places as the Congress may by law have directed.

SecT. 3. Treason against the United States shall consist only in levying war against them, or in adhering to their enemies, giving them aid and comfort. No person shall be convicted of treason unless on the testimony of two witnesses to the same overt act, or on confession in open court.

The Congress shall have power to declare the punishment of treason, but no attainder of treason shall work corruption of blood, or forfeiture, except during the life of the person attainted.

ARTICLE IV.

SecT. 1. Full faith and credit shall be given in each State to the public acts, records and judicial proceedings of every other State. And the Congress may by general laws prescribe the manner in which such acts, records and proceedings shall be proved, and the effect thereof.

SecT. 2. The citizens of each State shall be entitled to all privileges and immunities of citizens in the several States.

A person charged in any State with treason, felony, or other crime, who shall flee from justice, and be found in another State, shall on demand of the executive authority of the State from which he fled, be delivered up, to be removed to the State having jurisdiction of the crime.

No person held to service or labour in one State, under the laws thereof, escaping into another, shall, in consequence of any law or regulation therein, be discharged from such service, or labour, but shall be delivered up on claim of the party to whom such service or labour may be due.

General Regulations.

SecT. 3. New States may be admitted by the Congress into this Union; but no new State shall be formed or erected within the jurisdiction of any other State; nor any State be formed by the junction of two or more States, or parts of States, without the consent of the Legislatures of the States concerned, as well as of the Congress.

The Congress shall have power to dispose of and make all needful rules and regulations respecting the territory or other property belonging to the United States; and nothing in this Constitution shall be so construed as to prejudice any claims of the United States, or of any particular State.

Sec. 4. The United States shall guarantee to every State in this Union a republican form of government, and shall protect each of them against invasion; and on application of the Legislature, or of the Executive (when the Legislature cannot be convened) against domestic violence.

ARTICLE V.

Amendments provided.

The Congress, whenever two thirds of both Houses shall deem it necessary, shall propose amendments to this Constitution, or, on the application of the Legislatures of two thirds of the several States, shall call a Convention for proposing amendments, which, in either case, shall be valid to all intents and purposes, as part of this Constitution, when ratified by the Legislatures of three fourths of the several States, or by Conventions in three fourths thereof, as the one or the other mode of ratification may be proposed by the Congress: Provided, that no amendment which may be made prior to the year one thousand eight hundred and eight, shall in any manner affect the first and fourth clauses in the ninth section of the first article; and that no State, without its consent, shall be deprived of its equal suffrage in the Senate.

ARTICLE VI.

General Regulations.

All debts contracted and engagements entered into, before the adoption of this Constitution, shall be as valid against the United States under this Constitution, as under the Confederation.

This Constitution, and the laws of the United States which shall be made in pursuance thereof; and all treaties made, or which shall be made, under the authority of the United States, shall be the supreme law of the land; and the judges in every State shall be bound thereby, any thing in the Constitution or laws of any State to the contrary notwithstanding.

The Senators and Representatives beforementioned, and the members of the several State Legislatures, and all executive and judicial officers, both of the United States and of the several States, shall be bound, by oath or affirmation, to support this Constitution; but no religious test shall ever be required as a qualification to any office or public trust under the United States.

ARTICLE VII.

The ratification of the Conventions of nine States shall be sufficient for the establishment of this Constitution between the States so ratifying the same.

Done in CONVENTION, by the unanimous consent of the States present, the seventeenth day of September, in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and eighty-seven, and of the Independence of the United States of America the twelfth.

THE Convention, on the Day of signing the above "Frame of Government," Resolved, That it be laid before the Congress of the United States, and that it should afterwards be submitted to a Convention of Delegates to be chosen in each State by the people, for their assent and ratification.—They also Resolved, that it was their opinion that as soon as the Conventions of nine States have ratified the same; the United States in Congress assembled, should fix a day on which Electors should be appointed by said States, and a day on which the Electors should assemble to vote for the President, and the time and place for commencing proceedings under the Constitution; and that after such Publication, the Electors should be appointed, and the Senators and Representatives elected:—That the Electors should meet on the Day fixed for the Election of the President, and should transmit their votes certified, signed, sealed and directed, as the Constitution requires, to the Secretary of the United States in Congress assembled, that the Senators and Representatives should convene at the time and place assigned; that the Senators should appoint a President of the Senate, for the sole purpose of receiving, opening and counting the votes for President; and, that after he shall be chosen, the Congress, together with the President, should, without delay, proceed to execute the Constitution.

The following are the Names of the Gentlemen who composed the Convention, and of the States they represented:—Those with this mark [*] did not sign their assent thereto, by reason of non-attendance, or leaving the Convention before the business was completed; except Mr. Randolph, Mr. Mason, and Mr. Gerry, who were the only persons present that did not sign.

Letter to Congress from the Convention.

WE have now the honour to submit to the consideration of the United States, in Congress assembled, that Constitution which has appeared to us the most adviseable. The friends of our country have long seen and desired, that the power of making war, peace and treaties, that of levying money and regulating commerce, and the correspondent executive and judicial authorities, should be fully and effectually vested in the general government of the Union: but the impropriety of delegating such extensive trust to one body of men is evident—Hence results the necessity of a different organization.

It is obviously impracticable in the federal government of these States, to secure all rights of independent sovereignty to each, and yet provide for the interest and safety of all—Individuals entering into Society, must give up a share of liberty to preserve the rest. The magnitude of the sacrifice must depend as well on situation and circumstance, as on the object to be obtained. It is at all times difficult to draw with precision the line between those rights which must be surrendered, and those which may be reserved; and on the present occasion this difficulty was increased by a difference among the several States as to their situation, extent, habits, and particular interests.

In all our deliberations on this subject, we kept steadily in our view, that which appears to us the greatest interest of every true American, the consolidation of our Union, in which is involved our prosperity, felicity, safety, perhaps our national existence. This important consideration, seriously and deeply impressed on our minds, led each State in the Convention to be less rigid on points of inferior magnitude, than might have been otherwise expected; and thus the Constitution which we now present, is the result of a spirit of amity, and of that mutual deference and concession which the peculiarity of our political situation rendered indispensable. That it will meet the full and entire approbation of every State is not, perhaps, to be expected; but each will doubtless consider, that had her interests been alone consulted, the consequences might have been particularly disagreeable or injurious to others; that it is liable to as few exceptions as could reasonably have been expected, we hope and believe; that it may promote the lasting welfare of that country so dear to us all, and secure her freedom and happiness, is our most ardent wish.

Light House Keepers, Directions, &c.

Mr. Thomas Knox, Keeper of Boston Light House.

THE Keepers of Light Houses are carefully and diligently to attend their duty at all times, in keeping burning the Lights from sun setting to sun rising, and placing them so as they may be most seen by vessels coming in or going out; upon neglect, they are liable to a penalty of £.100.

The Duty on Vessels for maintaining the Light Houses is two pence one half of a penny per ton, to be paid to the Naval Officer previous to clearing any vessel not employed in the coasting or fishing business; And a duty of five pence per annum per ton to be paid by the master or owner of every coasting or fishing vessel of 30 tons and upwards; likewise a duty of one shilling per ton on vessels not wholly owned by citizens of any of the United States; the tonnage to be computed by carpenter's measure.

Directions for sailing in & out of Boston Bay.

THE Light House stands on a small Island at the north entrance of the channel (Point Alderton & Nantasket heights being on the south) and is about 65 feet high; to steer for it from Cape-Cod, the course is W.N.W. when within one league of the Cape: From Cape-Cod to the Light House is about 16 leagues: From Cape-Ann to the Light House, the course is S. W. distance 10 leagues. After making the Light, and the wind fair, you may bring it to bear W. by N. or W.N.W. and then run for it, till you come within two cables length of it. If the weather is so bad that a Pilot can't come off (as is sometimes the case) after running a-breast of it, so as to bring it to bear N. by E. you may run W. by S. about a mile and an half, to Nantasket road, where there is anchorage from 7 to 5 fathoms in safety. If the wind is a-head and you are obliged to work into Boston bay, stand to the southward till you bring the Light to bear W.N.W. and to the northward till you bring it to bear W.S.W. till within one league of it; then you must not stand to the Northward any further than to bring it to bear W. by N. and to the Southward to bring it to bear W.N.W.

There are two Lights at Cape-Ann, on an Island call'd Thacher's-Island; they bear of each other, when in one S.S.W. a quarter S. and N.N.E. a quarter N. To go out side the Londoner, or Thacher's-Island ledge, you must give the lights one league distance.

There is a Cannon at the Light House, to answer any signal Gun in thick weather.

Directions for the Entrance of Boston Bay, and sailing in and out of Plymouth.

THE Light-House stands on the Gurnet-Head, with two Lanthorns placed N.N.W. half W. and S.S.E. half E. at 11 Feet 6 Inches Distance.

These Lights are about 86 Feet from the Surface of the Sea, and cannot be brought into one to the Northward, unless you are on the Shore—But to the Southward, you may bring them into one, which is a very good Mark to clear you of Brown's Island or Sand Bank.

The High Land of the Monument bears from the Lights S a quarter W 3 Miles, and Monument Point S S E 3 Leagues, and Branches Point N half W about 3 Leagues, and Squash Head W half S 3 Miles, and the Eastermost Part of Brown's Islands or Shoal that dries S S W one Mile and a Quarter, and the Gurnet Rock from the Body of the Light-House E by S 3 quarters S the third part of a Mile; on this rock you have but 3 Feet at low Water, which you must observe; all the Soundings are taken.—When you have shut in the first Sandy Hill with the Gurnet Head, you are clear of the Rock; after which you must mind not to hale in too close to the Head, as there are many funken Rocks some Distance from the Shore. When you bring Squash Head to bear W by N, you may then steer up W by S, and if you are bound for Plymouth you must keep that Course for a large red Cliff on the Main, which is a very good Mark to carry you clear of Dick's Flat; then you must steer more Southerly for Beach Point, or run up until you are abreast of Squash Head, giving it a Quarter of a Mile Distance; then steer W by S half S, which will clear you of Dick's Flat, and carry you directly for Beach Point, keeping within 15 or 20 Yards of the Sandy Point, steering away to the Southward, keeping that Distance until you have shut in the Lights. where you may anchor in 3 and 4 Fathoms, but the Channel is very narrow, having nothing but a Flat all the Way to Plymouth, except this small Channel which runs close by this Neck of Land, you will have four and five Fathoms close to this Point. If you are bound into the Cowyard, you must steer as before directed, which will clear you of Dick's Flat and the Muscle Bank, observing to keep the House on the Gurnet Head just open with Squash Head, until you have opened the High Pines with Clark's Islands; then you are clear of the Muscle-Bank, when you may steer N W, until you have 3 Fathoms at low Water, not running into less.

In coming from the Northward bound into Plymouth, you must not bring the Lights more Southerly than S by W to avoid high Pine Ledge, which lays N from the Gurnet Head about 2 and half and 3 Miles: When you are on the shoalest Part of this Ledge, some part of which appears at low Ebbs, you will have the High Pines in Range with Captain's Hill, which will then bear W by S—This Ledge of Rocks lays one and half mile from the Shore, extending about NNE for near a Mile, and close to this Ledge you will have 4 & 5 Fathoms, and deepens gradually as you run from it to the Eastward; within a Mile you have 10 and 12 Fathoms.

In coming from the Southward, bound into Plymouth, you must not open the Northern Light to the Westward, but may keep them in one, which will carry you in 5 Fathoms by the Eastermost Part of Brown's Islands or Shoal, keeping that Course, until you are within a half Mile of the Gurnet Head or nigher, where you will have but 4 Fathoms; then Squash Head will bear W by N a little Northerly, and the two outermost Trees on the Head in one, then you may steer directly for them, until you being the Light House to bear E N E, and the House on Squash to bear N W, just open with the first Sandy Beach, where you may anchor in 4 Fathoms in Squash Road, in good clear Bottom; but if you are bound for Plymouth, or the Cowyard, you must steer as before directed.—If in the Night, it is best to anchor here, as it is difficult to make Beach Point, if dark, or to go into the Cowyard.

In turning into Plymouth, you must not stand in to the Northward in less than 3 Fathoms, as it runs a Flat a long Way from the Gurnet Head to Squash; and from both the Heads lays off a Point of Rocks a good Way from the Shore, many of them but just under Water at low Ebb — And all the way from Saquash to the Muscle Bank, you have shoal water; so that you must not stand in less than before mentioned—And in standing over for the Sands to the Southward, you must go about as soon as you have shoalen your water to 4 Fathoms, as it is hold to, and you may observe the Ripps, unless it is very smooth. This Sand extends from abreast of the Lights to Beach Point, most of which is dry at low Ebbs. From the Eastermost Part of this Sand to Dick's Flat, it rounds in with a considerable Sweep; you have but 5 Fathoms water from the Eastermost Part of Brown's Island to the Gurnet Head, and not more than 7 or 8 until you are abreast of Dick's Flat, where you will have 13 or 14 Fathoms, a deep Hole, and then shoalen to 5 Fathoms, abreast of Beach Point.

If you should fall in to the Southward of Brown's Islands or Sands, betwixt them and the Monument Land where you have 20 Fathoms in some Places, you must not attempt to run for the Lights, until you have them shut in one with the other, when they will bear N N W half W, if you do, you may depend on being on Brown's Islands or Sands, as there is no Passage for even a Boat at low water.

In coming in from the Northward in the Night, you must not bring the Lights to bear more Southerly than S by W to avoid High Pine Ledge, and keep that Course until you have them to bear N W or N W by W, when you will be clear of the Rocks when you may steer up W by S until you have the Lights to bear E N E, where you had best anchor in the Night. Here the Tide runs strong Channel Course from the Gurnet to the Race Point of Cape Cod, the Course is E half N about 6 Leagues Distance; and from the Gurnet to the Point going into Cape Cod Harbour, is E by S 7 Leagues.—If you should make the Lights in hard Northerly or N W winds, and cannot get into Plymouth, you may then run for Cape-Cod Harbour, bringing the Lights to bear W by N, and steer directly for the Harbour, which you may do unless very dark, as its hold to—and you may see the Sandy Hills before you can get on Shore. You may keep within a Hundred Yards of the Shore, until you are up with the Point that runs out to the Eastward, which you must give a Quarter of a Mile Distance, and then steer up N. W. If it should blow so hard that you cannot turn up the Harbour, you may anchor off the Point, clear bottom, you have 8 and 9 Fathoms very nigh the Shore, so that there is no danger of being on it, unless very dark.

At the Gurnet and Plymouth, the Tides are much the same as at Boston; that is, a S by E Moon makes Full Sea.

Directions for such Vessels as may be destined to Newbury Port, or that fall into Ipswich Bay.

TWO Light-Houses have been lately erected on the North End of Plumb Island, at the entrance of Merrimack river, which are kept constantly lighted from sunset to sunrise. — When any vessel sha'l fall into this bay, or shall be forced in by stress of weather, and shall make these lights, she may run safely in, over Newbury-Bar, observing the proper time of tide, and taking care to keep the two lights in one, until she gets within twice her length of the shore; then directing her course by the beach, where is bold water, she may proceed until abreast of the western Light House, where is good and safe anchorage in three fathoms of water.

A vessel passing near aboard the rocks of Cape-Ann, called the salvages, and steering N. W. about five leagues, will come up with the Bar in about ten fathoms of water. There is good anchorage in twelve fathoms of water, about half a league short of the Bar.

The Light Houses now bear due East and West of each other, and are so constructed as to be moveable; and care will be taken, in case the Bar shifts, to place them in such a situation as that the foregoing directions will always be a good guide to strangers.

The Marine Society and other gentlemen of Newburyport, in the course of the last summer, caused to be erected upon Plumb-Island three small houses, for the reception of such unfortunate mariners as may be cast on shore there. They are situated near the beach, about three miles asunder, and have high poles erected on them. In each of them are deposited fireworks and proper fuel for speedily kindling a fire. It is hoped that no person will make a wanton use of those means of preservation, so humanely provided for the most distressed of our fellow men.

Strangers who may be driven upon Plumb-Island, or the sandy beaches of Salisbury, or Hampton, are earnestly intreated to continue on board their vessel, if possible, until the tide shall leave them, when they can safely proceed on shore in search of the above mentioned houses. The number of instances of fatal miscarriage, which have attended those who have too suddenly forsaken their vessel, which has afterwards been found safe and dry, and the almost constant safety of those who continued on board, are a serious confirmation of the propriety of this advice.

N. B. There are seven feet of water on the shoal part of the Bar at low water, and at half-tide better than eleven feet.

Signals at the Castle.

For a Ship in Sight---A blue Flag on the upper Staff.

For a Snow-----A Union Flag.

For a Brigantine----A blue Pendant.

For two topsail vessels--Two Flags.

For three topsail Vessels--A Pendant and two Flags.
the Pendant uppermost.

For more than three topsail Vessels---Two Flags and a Pendant, the Pendant lowermost.

If twenty or more topsail Vessels appear, the large blue Flag is to be hoisted uppermost the Pendant next, and the Union lowermost: If they are discovered to be French Vessels, St. George's Ensign is to be hoisted.

Signals in the Night.

Upon discovering an Enemy in the Night, the Alarm is to be given at Nantasket by firing one Cannon and three Rockets successively; and if the same Signal is not repeated at the Castle in six Minutes, the firing and throwing of Rockets are to be repeated every six Minutes.

If an Alarm is to be general in the Night, then the Beacon is to be fired at Boston, and Expresses sent into the Country, to fire the other Beacons there.

No Signals are made for Sloops or Schooners.

EXPLANATION.

A, denotes that the hours and minutes mentioned in the preceding table, are to be added to the time of high water in Boston; S, denotes that they are to be subtracted; and where there are no hours nor minutes set against the names of the places, it is high water at the same time it is at Boston.

THE following is the extent of the District ceded to the United States of America at the conclusion of the late war, taken from measurements made with accuracy, and compared with countries whose situation and extent we are more acquainted with.

The river Ohio is navigable from Fort Pitt to its mouth, which is 1164 miles. The lands on the banks of the Ohio, and between the Alleghany mountains, the Lakes Ontario and Erie, and the Illinois and Mississippi rivers, contain 233,200 square miles, nearly equal to Great Britain and France, whose contents are 235,257 square miles.

The lands between the Illinois, Lakes Huron and Superior, and the Mississippi at the Falls of St. Anthony, contain 129,030 square miles, nearly equal to Great Britain and Ireland, which are 131,800 square miles.

The lands from St. Anthony's Falls to the south line, from the Lake of the Woods to the head of the Mississippi, contain 50,000 square miles, which is more than Holland, Flanders and Ireland, which are 47,908 square miles.

The Thirteen States of America contain 207,050 square miles, nearly as much as all Germany, Flanders, Holland and Switzerland, which contain 207,483 square miles.

List of Governors from the first Settlement of Plymouth and Massachusetts.

Governors of the Colony of Plymouth.

John Carver,	Thomas Prince,
William Bradford,	Josiah Winslow,
Edward Winslow,	Thomas Hinkley.

Mr. Carver was chosen Governor in 1620, the year the Company arrived at Plymouth (their number consisted of only 101, of whom 41 were adult males) he died suddenly the next year; Mr. Bradford succeeded him, and Mr. Isaac Allerton was chosen his Assistant, or Deputy Governor, and was annually elected as such till the year 1624, when, from the increase of the Colony, four more persons were added for Assistants, and a double voice given to the Governor; in 1633 two more Assistants were joined, which number of seven was kept up till they submitted to King James's commission to Sir Edm. Andros. Mr. Bradford was chosen annually from 1621 until 1637, except in 1633, 1636, and 1644, when Mr. Winslow was chosen, and 1634 when Mr. Prince was chosen, who also succeeded Mr. Bradford, and was annually elected, until his death in 1671, when Mr. Josiah Winslow succeeded; he died in 1680, when Mr. Hinkley was chosen, who held the place, except in the interruption by Governor Andros, until the junction with the Massachusetts in 1692. So that in the space of 71 years they had no more than six different persons for Governors, from which a presumption arises that they pitched upon men of virtue and well qualified to sustain the office of first magistrate.

Peregrine White was the first born in Plymouth Colony, a few days after their arrival at Cape Cod in 1620: he died at Marshfield in the 84th year of his age.

Elizabeth Patch, the first born female in Massachusetts, died at Salem Jan. 14, 1716, aged 87.

Mary Godfrey, the first child born at Newport, Rhode Island, died April 14, 1716, aged about 87 years.—
The longevity of the first born of these three Colonies, is somewhat remarkable.

The first that died at Plymouth was Edward Thompson, December 4, 1620.

The first marriage at Plimouth was Gov. Edw. Winslow to Mrs. Susanna White, widow, May 12, 1624, mother of Peregrine, the first child born after their arrival there.

The lands to be sold are situated between the Highlands and the Atlantic Ocean, from north to south, and between the River St. Croix and the State of New Hampshire, from east to west. Many fine Rivers have their sources in that tract, among which are the Kennebeck and Penobscot, running parallel at about 40 miles distance above 150 miles into the country, and navigable for vessels of almost any burthen for near 50 miles; there are many excellent harbours on the sea coast, and valuable on account of their neighbourhood to the fishing banks, as well as the large quantities of salmon, shad and alewives in the rivers; there is also great plenty of pine and other timber, and no country is better calculated for grazing: the soil is exceeding good, and capable of producing every species of vegetables which grow in any of the New-England States.—The above lands will be laid out in townships of six miles square, and will be sold by the township, half township, or single mile square, and the consolidated notes of this Commonwealth will be received in payment.—Every application will be duly attended to by the Committee, and every purchaser accommodated as far as possible.

Articles of Import and Trade,

Extracted from the Laws passed in 1785, 1787, and 1789, and in force at the publication hereof.

Fifteen per centum ad valorem, on all kinds of plated ware, silver and ivory handled knives and forks, all kinds of Jewellery, paste works, carpets of all kinds, copper-plate furniture, umbrellas, looking-glasses, china, glass, earthen and stone ware, silks of all kinds, gauzes, lawns and cambricks, and all kinds of cotton goods, silk velvets, muffs and tippets, gloves and mitts of all sorts, except leather, silk and thread hose, muslins, hyson tea, hard soap, hair brushes, tin plate ware, all foreign spirits of the kinds commonly known by the name of cordials, and all kinds of leather, coach and chaise lace, beef and pork, soap, nails and tin ware, wrapping and printing paper, and account books.

Ten per centum ad valorem, on all cutlery ware, except as before mentioned, on all wrought pewter and copper, except sheet copper, on all kinds of iron, steel and brass ware, including in this description every thing made of iron, steel and brass, or any or either of them, and whether the same be, or not, attached to, or connected with any wooden ware, and on window glass, cordage, cables and yarns of foreign growth or manufacture.

Five per centum ad valorem, on all other goods, wares and merchandize of foreign growth and manufacture, that shall be brought into the State by land or water, except in such cases as is otherwise hereafter provided for.

One per cent. on all hemp imported, to be appropriated for encouraging the raising of hemp in this Commonwealth.

The Captain or commanding Officer of any vessel or floe, is immediately after his arrival in port, to make report thereof to the Naval-Officer, and also to within forty eight hours after his arrival make due entry by manifest, under oath, of all the cargo, freight and adventures, which were on board at the time of her arrival, together with the proper names of the several packages containing the goods, with their marks and numbers respectively, and on failure to forfeit and pay a fine of one hundred pounds, and the vessel to be attached and held and sold for the payment of said fine, unless other security is given. Nevertheless, if any vessel should put into any port through stress of weather, or contrary winds, to lay only till she can proceed on her voyage, without breaking bulk, then the commanding Officer is not to be held to enter a manifest, but only to report to the proper Naval-Officer.

All goods, wares and merchandize whatever, which shall be taken out of any vessel or float without a permit from the Naval Officer, or his Deputy, in writing, are to be forfeited. And if any goods whatever, belonging to, or that come to the care of any owner or master of any vessel, shall be so taken out, they will not only be forfeited, but the vessel also, together with her tackle, appurtenances and cargo, being the property of such owner or master, is to be forfeited. If any owner of any vessel, either in part or in whole, shall make it appear, to the satisfaction of the Court, before whom the trial shall be had, that any goods, wares or merchandize taken out of such vessel contrary to law, were so taken without his knowledge, and contrary to his intention; then such owner shall be exempted from the forfeiture of his part of such vessel, and of the cargo thereof; and the master of said vessel shall forfeit the full value of such vessel and cargo, as is before described.

No Naval-Officer or Deputy, is to give a permit for unloading any dutied goods, until he has received a certificate from the proper Collector or his Deputy, that the duty is secured.

Every importer or consignee of dutied goods, is to produce to the Collector or his Deputy, the original invoice of all the dutied goods contained in those identical packages mentioned in the manifest, and which he wants a permit to unlade, and to take the following oath, viz.

You A. B. do solemnly swear (or affirm) that the invoice (or invoices) by you now produced, contain, to the best of your knowledge and belief, all the goods, wares and merchandize that have come to your care, on board of the C. D. master, and that the price affixed to each article is the real bona fide cost thereof. So help you GOD.

And on the goods named in any invoice so attested, the Collector or his Deputy is to calculate the Impost duty at their several rates as is directed in the Act. without making any deduction from the foot of the invoice, except for commissions and insurance. And when the Impost duty is ascertained, the importer or consignee is to pay the same to the Collector or his Deputy, or deposit goods at his own cost and risk to double the value of the Impost, which Goods, if the impost is not paid in ninety days, are to be sold by the Collector at public auction, the overplus, if any there be, to be refunded.

Any vessel not designed for any port in this State, and shall arrive at any port therein, in distress, and shall have occasion to unlade any part of her cargo, in order to repair said vessel, in such case no Impost is to be demanded, provided the goods are taken out and reshipped under the care and direction of the Naval-Officer. Goods sold to discharge the expence of repairs, &c. (contraband goods excepted) are to pay the proper impost duty.

Harvard COLLEGE, or UNIVERSITY.

This Seminary was founded in the year 1636, the General Assembly having that year granted £.400 towards the establishment thereof; and in the year 1638, was added the sum of £. 779 17s. 2d. being a donation bequeathed by the Rev. Mr. John Harvard, of Charleſton; (the name of the College was given to perpetuate his memory) likewise, about two years after, the income of the Ferry between Boston and Charleſton was given by the Court towards its further support; besides these provincial grants there were many liberal contributions from sundry persons, both in Europe and America, at various times, towards its revenue, edifices, library, apparatus for philosophical, astronomical, mathematical, electrical, and other experiments.—On the night of the 24th of January 1764, this University met with a severe and heavy loss, when the ancient building called Harvard-Hall was consumed by fire. In this Hall was deposited the public Library, containing near 5000 volumes, the philosophical apparatus, a variety of instruments for miscellaneous purposes, and a great number of curiosities, natural and artificial, all which were entirely lost: The General Assembly then sitting there unanimously voted to rebuild the Hall; since which, by the generous donations of a great number of benefactors, the loss is more than repaired; the Library now consists of between 12 and 13,000 volumes, with a very ample apparatus for experiments, &c. in every branch of philosophy, for the advantage of the students; there has also been several accessions made to the Museum which now contains a handsome collection of curiosities both of art and nature.—This University is situated in a very healthful soil, about 4 miles from Boston, and since its establishment to July 1783, about 3150 students, &c. have been admitted to academical degrees, about 1020 of whom have been ordained to the work of the Gospel Ministry; and it is supposed 1450 of the whole number are now living. Persons of any denomination may have their children educated there; but all are obliged at admission to give bond for the payment of the College dues.—After four years residence and pursuit of the various branches of literature and science, Students, on the Commencement day, having publickly performed the exercises assigned them, are admitted by the President to the degree of Bachelor of Arts in these words—Pro auctoritate mihi commissa, admitto vos ad primum gradum in artibus vobisque trado hunc librum, una cum potestate publice praelegendi quotiescunque ad hoc munus evocati fueritis. After three years (residence not being required) Bachelors are admitted to the degree of Master of Arts by the President in these words—Pro auctoritate mihi commissa admitto vos ad secundum gradum in artibus; vobisque trado hunc librum, una cum potestate publice profitendi, ubicunque ad hoc munus evocati fueritis.

This Seminary at its first institution consisted only of a Preceptor, two Ushers, and a Treasurer:—Mr. Nathaniel Eaton was the first Preceptor, he continued from 1638 to 1640, was a man of learning, but being too severe in his discipline was dismissed. After which the following Gentlemen succeeded as Presidents to the present time, as vacancies have taken place by deaths or resignations, viz.

- 1640, Rev. Mr. Henry Dunster,
- 1654, Rev. Mr. Charles Chauncy,
- 1672, Leonard Hoar, M. D.
- 1675, Rev. Mr. Urian Oakes,
- 1681, Rev. Dr. Increase Mather,

[He moderated and conferred the Degrees at the Commencement only that year, his Church in Boston not being willing at that time to part with him.]

- 1682, John Rogers, M. D.

[He died very suddenly, the morning of Commencement, 1684, Mr. William Hubbard, of Ipswich, author of the History of Indian wars moderated at the public exercises.]

- 1685, Rev. Dr. Increase Mather,

[During his Presidency he resided at his house and kept with his Church in Boston, but made continual visits to the College, managing its weekly Disputations and annual Commencements, and inspecting the affairs of that Society.]

- 1701, Rev. Mr. Samuel Willard, Vice President.

[No President being appointed instead of Mr Mather, he officiated till the time of his death in September 1707, after which Mr. Leverett was chosen.]

- 1707, Hon. John Leverett, Esq;
- 1725, Rev. Mr. Benjamin Wadsworth,
- 1737, Rev. Mr. Edward Halycke,
- 1770, Rev. Dr. Samuel Locke,
- 1774, Rev. Dr. Samuel Langdon,
- 1781, Rev. Dr. Joseph Willard.

UNIVERSITY at Cambridge.

AS the Medical Institution at this University has been established but a few years, it is thought the following concise account of the qualifications of its Professors and design of the establishment, with the terms on which students in physic are admitted to degrees would not be unnecessary to be made public, viz. That each Professor be a Master of Arts, or graduated Bachelor or Doctor in Physic, of the Christian religion, and of strict morals: They are to demonstrate to their pupils the anatomy of the human body, on recent subjects, if they can be procured, if not, on preparations duly adapted to the purpose; this to be elucidated by physiological observations on the parts; explain and perform a compleat system of surgical operations; likewise to teach the theory and practice of physic, by directing and superintending their private studies, lecturing on the diseases of the human body, and taking them on visits to their patients, making proper observations on the nature of the disease, and the method of cure. The Professors are likewise to deliver Lectures on the Materia Medica, explain the theory of Chymistry, and apply its principles in a course of actual experiments. —

Impressed with the importance of rendering this Institution more extensively useful, by appointing proper means for exciting an emulation among the students of physic, to become eminent and distinguished in their profession, and of conferring adequate rewards and encouragements on the ambitious and deserving, the Government of the University has subjoined to the original plan such honorary distinctions as have been generally adopted in foreign Universities, and as may duly discriminate between those who shall have enjoyed the advantages of regular instruction, and those who shall necessarily be less qualified for the practice of the medical art. —

The Terms on which Students in Physic are admitted to Degrees are as follow, viz.

That they shall have attended two courses of Lectures in Anatomy and Surgery, two courses in the theory and practice of Physic, and two courses in Chymistry and the Materia Medica; have studied two full years with some reputable Practitioner in Physic; and have waited the expiration of another before they offer themselves as candidates: And after having passed through a public examination made by the Professors, in the presence of the Governors of the University, and such members of the Massachusetts Medical Society, and other Physicians and Gentlemen as may chuse to attend, and at such examination deliver and defend a dissertation in Latin or English on such disease or medical topic as shall be assigned them; and if at the end of such examination it shall be the opinion of the major part of the Professors that they are well qualified to pursue the business of Physic and Surgery, they are then intitled to the degree of Batchelor in Physic, which is given them by the President of the University on the day of the public Commencement, in these words,— Pro auctoritate mihi commissa, admitto vos ad gradum in medicina baccalaurealem; vobisque trado hoc diploma atque do et concedo omnia jura et privilegia, dignitates ac honores, quibus ad istiusmodi gradum uspiam gentium eveſti ornantur, vel ornari debent.

UNIVERSITY at Cambridge.

The Terms for a Degree of Doctor in Physic are, Batchelors in Physic of seven years standing, and who during that time have been practitioners in Physic, may receive a degree of Doctor in Physic, upon their being approved by the medical Professors, after being examined by them, in presence of the Governors of the University and such other Gentlemen as shall chuse to attend, and delivering and defending one dissertation in Latin and one in the English language, on such disease or medical topic as shall be assigned them by the Professors, with the consent of the President: The Latin dissertation to be printed at their own expence.

All the Fees that are paid for Degrees are to be applied in such a manner as to render this plan of medical instruction of more extensive public utility.

The government of the University, in order to promote economy, and render a liberal education less expensive, have agreed on a uniformity in the dress of the students, which will be plain, but neat, and more academical than what has been heretofore used. Silk is entirely prohibited, and the use of home manufactures recommended, as far as may be.

This Society adjudges premiums to those who by signal exertions shall save others from death, or who shall first discover and endeavour to recover persons apparently dead, or shall bring the first intelligence to one of the Physicians of the Society of such accidents as produce apparent death.—They have, consistently with their constitution, erected a building on Marshfield beach, another on the outer beach of Nantasket, and one on Lovell's island (being places more peculiarly exposed in tempestuous weather) for the reception and preservation of such unfortunate persons as may be shipwrecked near those places.

This Society, consists of about 150 Members, who annually contribute towards carrying their humane design into execution; they have recommended the following summary method of treatment to be used with persons apparently dead from drowning, viz.

Convey the person to the nearest convenient house, with his head raised:—Strip and dry him as quick as possible; clean the mouth and nostrils from froth or mud—if a child, let him be placed between two persons naked, in a hot bed—if an adult, lay him on a hot blanket or bed, and in cold weather near a fire—in warm weather, the air should be freely admitted into the room.—The body is next to be gently rubbed with warm woollen cloths sprinkled with spirits, if at hand, otherwise dry;—A heated warming-pan may be now lightly moved over the back, properly covered with a blanket—and the body, if of a child, is to be gently shook every few minutes:—Whilst these means are using, one or two assistants, are to be employed in blowing up tobacco smoke into the fundament, with the instrument provided for the purpose, or a Tobacco Pipe, if that cannot be had—the bowl filled with Tobacco, and properly lighted, being covered with a handkerchief, or piece of linen, so as to defend the mouth of the assistant in blowing; Bathe the breast with hot rum, and persist in the use of these means for several hours. If no signs of life should then appear, let the body be kept warm several hours longer, with hot bricks, or vessels of hot water, applied to the palms of the hands, and soles of the feet, and this for a longer or shorter time, as the circumstances of the case may dictate.

MESSI'RS FLEETS, the Editors, having again presented to the public another of their annual REGISTERS, and Pocket ALMANACK, being the Tenth from the first publication thereof, and principally adapted for the use of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts; it is presumed, that the convenience of such a necessary pocket Companion will always be a sufficient recommendation; though they are sensible, notwithstanding their utmost care and attention, that a work of this nature will constantly require amendments, for it is very difficult, if at all possible, that among such a variety, a collection should be made without some omission, either of names, places of abode, or titles; for the prevention of which, as much as possible in future, upon better information the errors shall be corrected in their next periodical edition:---They return thanks to those Gentlemen in town and country who have hitherto assisted them in the corrections respecting the matters therein contained, and would be much obliged to them for the continuance of their kindness in that or any other respect.
